

L'ELOINA-DAVID

(Montagne St. Emilion)

Bruno Marchand, Chateau Bonneau's owner and manager, takes pride in the fact that most of his sales are to private individuals. So we count ourselves lucky to get our allocation, however small. And luckier still to land a little of this, his prestige cuvée, L'Eloina-David. Very unusually, it is 100% Cabernet Franc, a grape whose high-toned qualities are all too often lost in a blend. Here a touch of new oak enhances the raspberry and blackcurrant fruit. Rich and complex, its sports spice notes, smooth tannins and a long finish.

L'ELOINA-DAVID

(Montagne St. Emilion)

Bruno Marchand, Chateau Bonneau's owner and manager, takes pride in the fact that most of his sales are to private individuals. So we count ourselves lucky to get our allocation, however small. And luckier still to land a little of this, his prestige cuvée, L'Eloina-David. Very unusually, it is 100% Cabernet Franc, a grape whose high-toned qualities are all too often lost in a blend. Here a touch of new oak enhances the raspberry and blackcurrant fruit. Rich and complex, its sports spice notes, smooth tannins and a long finish.

L'ELOINA-DAVID

(Montagne St. Emilion)

Bruno Marchand, Chateau Bonneau's owner and manager, takes pride in the fact that most of his sales are to private individuals. So we count ourselves lucky to get our allocation, however small. And luckier still to land a little of this, his prestige cuvée, L'Eloina-David. Very unusually, it is 100% Cabernet Franc, a grape whose high-toned qualities are all too often lost in a blend. Here a touch of new oak enhances the raspberry and blackcurrant fruit. Rich and complex, its sports spice notes, smooth tannins and a long finish.

L'ELOINA-DAVID

(Montagne St. Emilion)

Bruno Marchand, Chateau Bonneau's owner and manager, takes pride in the fact that most of his sales are to private individuals. So we count ourselves lucky to get our allocation, however small. And luckier still to land a little of this, his prestige cuvée, L'Eloina-David. Very unusually, it is 100% Cabernet Franc, a grape whose high-toned qualities are all too often lost in a blend. Here a touch of new oak enhances the raspberry and blackcurrant fruit. Rich and complex, its sports spice notes, smooth tannins and a long finish.