

CAROBBIO

Chianti Classico

Carobbio is one of those wineries that everyone will want to have discovered first - so here's the chance to stake your claim. It's already much sought after in Italy, with a total production of under 4,000 cases. The winemaker is Gabriella Tani, one of the few women enologists at the top of the field, and she is responsible for the small output, insisting on tiny yields. The result? A wine that looks and tastes more like Brunello, only the bright notes giving the game away – Chianti at its best.

CAROBBIO

Chianti Classico

Carobbio is one of those wineries that everyone will want to have discovered first - so here's the chance to stake your claim. It's already much sought after in Italy, with a total production of under 4,000 cases. The winemaker is Gabriella Tani, one of the few women enologists at the top of the field, and she is responsible for the small output, insisting on tiny yields. The result? A wine that looks and tastes more like Brunello, only the bright notes giving the game away – Chianti at its best.

CAROBBIO

Chianti Classico

Carobbio is one of those wineries that everyone will want to have discovered first - so here's the chance to stake your claim. It's already much sought after in Italy, with a total production of under 4,000 cases. The winemaker is Gabriella Tani, one of the few women enologists at the top of the field, and she is responsible for the small output, insisting on tiny yields. The result? A wine that looks and tastes more like Brunello, only the bright notes giving the game away – Chianti at its best.

CAROBBIO

Chianti Classico

Carobbio is one of those wineries that everyone will want to have discovered first - so here's the chance to stake your claim. It's already much sought after in Italy, with a total production of under 4,000 cases. The winemaker is Gabriella Tani, one of the few women enologists at the top of the field, and she is responsible for the small output, insisting on tiny yields. The result? A wine that looks and tastes more like Brunello, only the bright notes giving the game away – Chianti at its best.