Vintage note: The spring of 2019 brought no major surprises, but the combination of limited rainfall and hot summer weather posed challenges for both the vineyard and the surrounding area. The vines struggled to obtain sufficient water. Consequently, we decided to start grape harvesting a week earlier than originally planned. The grapes, although smaller and containing less water, exhibited a notable concentration of sugar, while their size and water content ensured a balanced acidity. As a result, the wine produced from these grapes boasts a higher alcohol content and strong tannins. This wine had a skin contact for 30 days.
