

CLOS SAINT FIACRE

ORLÉANS - LOIRE VALLEY - FRANCE

New Orleans, like New York, has overshadowed the city it was named after. 'Old' Orléans, once one of the richest towns in France has become a relative backwater. Even in wine. It was only in 2006 that it got the Appellation Controlee. Happily the wines are becoming better known today. The red is an unusual blend of 70% Pinot Meunier and 30% Pinot Noir. Lovely red currant fruit with earth and spice notes.

CLOS SAINT FIACRE

ORLÉANS - LOIRE VALLEY - FRANCE

New Orleans, like New York, has overshadowed the city it was named after. 'Old' Orléans, once one of the richest towns in France has become a relative backwater. Even in wine. It was only in 2006 that it got the Appellation Controlee. Happily the wines are becoming better known today. The red is an unusual blend of 70% Pinot Meunier and 30% Pinot Noir. Lovely red currant fruit with earth and spice notes.

CLOS SAINT FIACRE

ORLÉANS - LOIRE VALLEY - FRANCE

New Orleans, like New York, has overshadowed the city it was named after. 'Old' Orléans, once one of the richest towns in France has become a relative backwater. Even in wine. It was only in 2006 that it got the Appellation Controlee. Happily the wines are becoming better known today. The red is an unusual blend of 70% Pinot Meunier and 30% Pinot Noir. Lovely red currant fruit with earth and spice notes.

CLOS SAINT FIACRE

ORLÉANS - LOIRE VALLEY - FRANCE

New Orleans, like New York, has overshadowed the city it was named after. 'Old' Orléans, once one of the richest towns in France has become a relative backwater. Even in wine. It was only in 2006 that it got the Appellation Controlee. Happily the wines are becoming better known today. The red is an unusual blend of 70% Pinot Meunier and 30% Pinot Noir. Lovely red currant fruit with earth and spice notes.